

Laugh Learn Grow

Team Building Workshop

Online or In-Person

What is it?

A fun and practical workshop that uses improvisational concepts and exercises to get participants actively engaged, learning and laughing.

What are the key objectives?

To ensure participants:

- Cultivate trust, communication, and collaboration skills through the concept of “Yes, And”
- Experience plenty of fun and laughter, and become more closely drawn together

What results can my team expect?

- Greater feelings of camaraderie and unity as a team
- Increased confidence and expanded comfort zones
- Simple but effective tools and takeaways
- A uniquely memorable and practical team training experience

Who facilitates it?

Jon Ulrich

Jon is Improv Cincinnati's Executive Director and a former Fortune 100 Corporate Trainer. He's a veteran improviser and teacher who has delivered corporate improvisation workshops to 65+ companies.

Feedback

"I had no idea how just how applicable improv is to my every day work."

Alex Bross - VP of Data Engineering at Fifth Third Bank

"It was the perfect balance of team building and application, not to mention a new way to connect with peers. Definitely a hit!"

Angie Madison - Chief of Staff at Capital One

"Amazing... This was a powerful event, and I can't wait to bring my business partners."

Alice Schloemer - Group Manager at Kroger Tech & Digital Product Management

"10 out of 10. Everyone came back giddy and excited."

Janelle Wichmann - Brand Manager at Procter and Gamble

"People were talking about it for the next few days. It was the highlight their training week."

Bryan Becker - Global Engineering and Process Improvement Manager at Michelman

"It really tied into the collaborative theme of our team retreat, and a lot of the people you engaged don't normally engage. That was huge."

Kristine Cassano - Bursar at Miami University
